

ARRIVEDERCI, ROMA

This song of farewell to eternal Rome is indelibly associated with Mario Lanza, the flamboyantly gifted, ill-fated tenor who sang it in the 1958 movie The Seven Hills of Rome, a year before his death. Italian musical comedy star Renato Rascel, who played Lanza's cousin in the picture, wrote the bittersweet melody. It seems to echo the adage that Rome is like an old sweet heart, for whom "Goodbye" is just another way of saying "We'll meet again."
